

Newly-Paved Lincoln Avenue Open to Public

Newly-paved Lincoln Avenue from McKinley west to a point near Dennison was opened to the public Tuesday, City Street Commissioner Sneed Jordan announced today.

The street is complete except for the dressing of shoulders and approaches from other streets, and the erection of concrete railing on the bridge over the West Harrisburg drainage ditch.

The work was done under contract by the J. D. Barter Construction Co. of Harrisburg, which subcontracted the laying of the bituminous surface to the Macclair Asphalt Co. William Brown will do the dressing of the shoulders and approaches.

The city of Harrisburg later will tie in the sidewalks to the new bridge.

The new pavement is about 30 feet wide, with 27 feet of bituminous surfacing between the curbing. A one-inch layer of rock was placed first on the dirt, after which three layers of coarse mix and one layer of fine mix were laid.

Commissioner Jordan explained that the street stops about 100 feet east of Dennison because the state division of highways would not permit the city to go farther under the motor fuel tax program under which the street financing was set up. The funds can be used only on arterial streets and the Lincoln arterial street ended at the old city limits, about 100 feet east of Dennison.

Commissioner Jordan also stated that a half block of area between the brick pavement and the sidewalk on the south side of Church street, between Main and Jackson, had been blacktopped while the Macclair asphalt mixing plant was in operation on Barnett street.

Stratton Plans Appeal to President Against Order to Disband Air Guard Unit

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton today planned an appeal to President Eisenhower to follow up a bitter protest of an order to disband an Air National Guard fighter squadron near Chicago.

The governor Tuesday said the order, by the National Guard Bureau, was "un-American" and "illegal." The order called for the elimination of the 168th fighter interceptor squadron of the Air National Guard now based at O'Hare Field near Chicago.

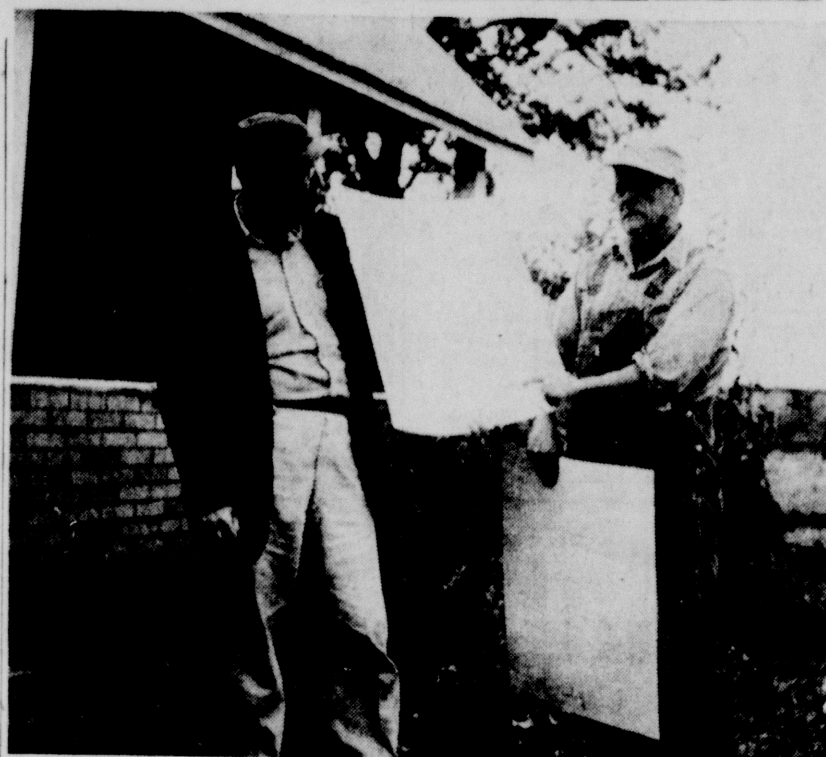

Stratton said he will ask the president to intervene in the "ill conceived" order, and as chairman of the national governor's conference he will refer the subject to the conference's executive committee early in December.

The governor said the order

Proper Land Uses Explained During Soil Dist. Field Tour to Watson Farm

A small, but interested group, heard first hand Tuesday afternoon how one Saline county farmer had greatly increased the productivity of his farm by following proper land uses as outlined by the Saline County Soil Conservation district.

The group toured the Homer Watson farm, in the northwest part of the county.

Mr. Watson declared that he was now producing 20 bushels of corn more per acre and had tripled his hay crop. In dollars and cents, his gross income is $1,000 and his net income $600 more annually. And his farm is worth considerably more now that he has controlled erosion, begun proper rotation of crops, and built up the land.

The tour, sponsored by the Saline County Soil Conservation district, was headed by Alva Gholson, president of the group, and Tom Morgan, farm planner.

During a short assembly at the city hall Mr. Gholson, Mr. Morgan and Paul Halbersleben, an officer of the conservation district, spoke briefly on the purpose of the organization—to make the land produce to the maximum and still save it for future generations by wise use.

Mr. Morgan then explained that soil surveys are made to determine the types of land, with slope and erosion major factors, before recommendations are made to the farmers regarding the land use capability.

Lands are listed in seven classes—Class I, II, III cropland; IV hay and pasture; V, VI, VII, grass and timber, with VII being gullied land and best suited for growing trees.

Using Class III land, with a 4 to 7 per cent slope and 7 to 14 inches of top soil, as an example of a recommended farming program, Mr. Morgan stated the following:

For straight row farming a five-year rotation plan is recommended—one year row crops, one year small grains and three years of grass and legumes.

Contour farming a six-year rotation would be two years row crops, one year small grains, three years grass and legumes.

Terrace farming a four-year rotation with two years row crops, one year small grain and one year grass and legumes.

Mr. Watson stated he joined the Soil Conservation district in 1954 and with limited financial resources had greatly improved his farm in three years.

With his regular farm equipment he had built grass waterways and controlled erosion, a major improvement.

Dollar Days This Week in Local Stores

A diller, a dollar, a NINE o'clock scholar!

It'll be the nine o'clock scholars who are the really bright ones in Harrisburg this week because they'll be the early birds at the big Dollar Days event to be presented by Harrisburg merchants.

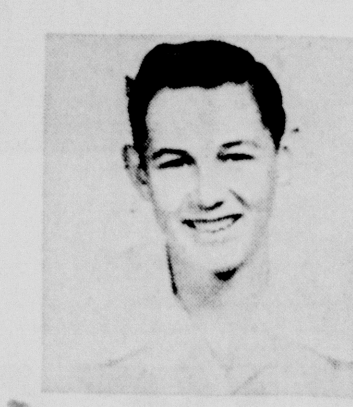

It'll be Dollar Day on Thursday, Dollar Day on Friday and Dollar Day on Saturday. And don't forget that on Thursday the dollar bargains will be flowing until 8 p. m.

The merchants of Harrisburg have been spending a lot of time working out the plans for Dollar Days and have selected outstanding stock from their stores to give the public a lot for a buck.

They invite local townspeople and everybody from neighboring towns and the countryside to come to Harrisburg on one, two or all three of the Dollar Days because the trips will be worth while.

In case some people are wondering just what will be on sale during the three-day Dollar Days, all they have to do is to take a peek at the pages of The Daily Register today. They can get a pretty good sample of what they'll find.

Pep Rally Thursday Night to Open Homecoming Activities for HTHS

The annual Harrisburg Township high school Homecoming will be held this week with the parade, football game and Homecoming ball at which the Queen will be crowned on Friday, preceded by a Thursday night pep rally.

Sullivan Sentenced To Federal Prison

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP) — Howard Sullivan, Harrisburg taxicab driver, Tuesday was sentenced to two years in federal prison.

Sullivan was sentenced in federal court here by U. S. District Judge William Juergens for raising two postal money orders.

Testimony revealed he purchased a fifty-cent money order at Raleigh and a fifty-cent money order at Carrier Mills on consecutive days, September 10 and 11, and in each case raised the money order to $59.50 and cashed it.

To Organize Saline Valley Development Ass'n Next Tuesday

Saline and Gallatin counties are planning to pool their resources in a concerted bid for new industry and other economic and social improvements which would benefit the area.

A Saline Valley Development Association will be organized at a meeting in the court house at New Shawneetown at 7:30 p. m. next Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Officers will be elected from each county and one representative from each of the incorporated towns in the bi-county region.

The association will also have a board of governors composed of representatives from social, fraternal and civic groups in the two counties.

The idea for the association was conceived last June when an industrial committee from the Saline County Board of Supervisors decided their efforts would be more productive if a larger area was represented. They invited Gallatin county supervisors to a meeting to hear an address by Richard W. Poston, director of the Southern Illinois University Department of Community Development.

Poston's department has been working for several years with Eldorado on a civic action program aimed at uplifting the town economically and socially. He urged the supervisors to work for the same goals on a two-county level.

A steering committee mapping plans for the Saline Valley Development Association includes Raymond Field, Carrier Mills, Aubrey Giles, Eldorado, and Ewell Winkelman, Harrisburg, all Saline county supervisors. Also on the committee are Mart Watson, Eldorado; F. D. Pankey, Carrier Mills, and Eugene Duffy, Ridgway.

Both American and British officials hoped to capitalize on the goodwill created by Queen Elizabeth's visit to this country to hammer out important new Anglo-American accords on major world issues.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, who has been here several days, and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were scheduled to attend tonight's opening meeting and an informal dinner to follow.

Harrisburg got a half inch of rainfall during the night, up to 7 a. m. today, Harrison Kibler reported this morning. Galatia had .60 inch for the same period.

Eldorado-Cairo Tilt Postponed

J. Ward Barnes, Eldorado high school principal, today announced the Eldorado-Cairo football game scheduled to be played at Cairo Friday night has been postponed until Nov. 11, an open date for both schools.

Barnes said the game was postponed at the request of Cairo school authorities, who called Eldorado this morning and asked for a different date because of much illness in the Cairo high school.

This request definitely was satisfactory to Eldorado, Mr. Barnes stated, because there is considerable illness at Eldorado high, with several football players ailing.

Barnes said the telephone conversation revealed Cairo apparently is worse off due to illnesses than Eldorado.

Will Study Twin Challenges by Soviet Russia

Prime Minister Met at Airport by Dulles, Adm. Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Eisenhower flew here today for summit talks on Russia's twin challenges—Sputnik and Syria.

Eisenhower returned from a New York speaking engagement at 8:45 a. m. e. d. t. with plans to lead a "chins up" campaign to bolster America's confidence in its economic, scientific and military strength.

Macmillan landed 30 minutes later, on a direct flight from London. It was reported that he carried concrete proposals for Anglo-American partnership in space missile development, stronger inter-allied scientific cooperation through NATO, and a common front against Russia's Middle East propaganda offensive.

Macmillan said in a brief airport statement that the talks will deal with "our common purpose . . . to preserve the freedom of all the free nations, and give all peoples of the world a chance for a full and fruitful life."

Three Days of Talks

Their objective, he said, is to "improve friendship and extend cooperation between our two countries."

The two leaders will meet in three days of informal talks beginning at 6 p. m. e. d. t.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, met the British prime minister at the airport.

In greeting Macmillan, Dulles said U. S.-British cooperation and the unity of the free world must never be taken for granted.

"We know the Communist world is held together by force," Dulles said. "The free world is not held together by force, but by understanding. We must never take that understanding for granted — it needs to be constantly renewed and strengthened."

Dulles said the President's talks with Macmillan, coming on the heels of Queen Elizabeth's visit, "give us an additional opportunity to tie together, not just two nations, not just the United States and the Commonwealth nations, but all free nations—to cooperate and work together . . . to wage peace successfully."

Missile Fired

A cheering note was supplied on the eve of the talks in the firing of a U. S. Jupiter 1,500-mile ballistic missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The administration grabbed the offensive in the propaganda war with Russia over space rocketry by informing the world for the first time that one of its intermediate range ballistic missile tests was successful and had hit the target.

Both American and British officials hoped to capitalize on the goodwill created by Queen Elizabeth's visit to this country to hammer out important new Anglo-American accords on major world issues.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, who has been here several days, and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were scheduled to attend tonight's opening meeting and an informal dinner to follow.

Champion of Darkness

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

We in the United States have conceded to the Soviet Union their accomplishment in ushering in the space era. But we insist upon reminding them and the world of their earthly sins.

Just a year ago in Hungary there began a human uprising which drew out the most bestial instincts in the Kremlin's leaders. With icy brutality the Russians shattered Hungarian bodies by the thousands as they moved in with tanks and other armored force to crush the revolt.

This was not a rebellion carried to the world by vague rumor or occasional refugee. Western newsmen reported and photographed it.
Refugees by the tens of thousands poured across the Austrian border before it was finally sealed. They told the story in finely etched detail.

In the beginning the rebels seemed to be following a pattern set earlier in 1956 by the courageous Poles, who carved out for themselves greater independence within the Communist orbit.

But the Hungarians, intoxicated with the first fresh taste of liberty, struck for total liberation.
Had they been able to pursue their path to its logical end, they would have cut all ties to Moscow and moved toward either neutrality or a link to the Western family of nations.

This was their undoing. The Kremlin could not tolerate defiance on so massive and complete a scale. Russian armies rushed to the centers of revolt to snuff out this flame before it should spread to other satellite lands.

Never was such inhumanity done in the name of humanity. In characteristic manner the Soviet Union dared to contend that it had been invited by the Hungarian people to put down an uprising generated by plotting foreign elements.

This time, however, the fraud was too patent to be believed by any but the most gullible folk around the globe. The truth had been too well told. And it was told again with devastating power in a United Nations report that led to a strongly worded, fully deserved condemnation of Russia for its crimes against Hungary.

We must never let peoples across the earth forget the ruthless contempt for human life which is practiced by these men who say endlessly, in painful but too often effective monotony, that they are the friends of the masses.

With the launching of the Soviet earth satellite, new fear today grips the hearts of many people in many places. If the East-West struggle came to the test of war, some would try to hold aloof in shaky neutrality rather than put in boldly with the cause of freedom. Some, too, say frankly they would accept the iron yoke of Russian occupation before they would fight in a nuclear age.

We will not argue here the wisdom of their outlook, or consider whether their fears are warranted.
We will simply point to the story of Hungary as it unfolded in late 1956. There for all to see is the true meaning of communism.

With luminous clarity, Hungary showed the world that communism has no helping hand for men. It has only the cruel boot with which it stamps out every decent human aspiration which dares to rise into the light.

In a world crying to get into the light, Russia is the champion of darkness. And it has no blacker deeds recorded against it than those it committed upon the fiery spirit of the Hungarian people.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Anglo-American Relations
Have Improved Remarkably
From Their Last Year's Low:
Two Congressmen Got Arrested In Moscow; Dulles And Lloyd Are Worried About Unpredictable Khrushchev.

WASHINGTON. — To get an idea of how much American-British relations have improved as a result of the celestial visit of Sputnik, the royal visit of Elizabeth, and the political visit of Prime Minister MacMillan, you need to go back to the Suez crisis just one year ago when John Foster
Dulles was in Walter Reed Hospital for cancer surgery.

Prior to his illness, Dulles had been dickered back and forth with London regarding the operation and payment of tolls through the canal. He had been first on the British side, then on Nasser's side, had proposed a ship-users' association, then opposed his own proposal. The British were disgusted, especially Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

On top of this, and after British and French troops followed the Israel army into Suez, the United States had made blunt, blistering demands that the three armies get out. In the case of the British, the demand was made by Eisenhower himself, using what was described as barrack-room language on the transatlantic telephone direct to Anthony Eden. It contributed to Eden's subsequent resignation as prime minister a few weeks later.

Probably not since 1865 and the Civil War had relations between England and the United States sunk so low.

Almost at the height of this crisis,
just after the British-French-Israelis had agreed to a cease-fire, Foreign Secretary Lloyd paid a courtesy call on the recuperating Dulles. Lloyd was in New York for the United Nations, and, though almost loathing Dulles, he felt he should call on the American secretary of state.

As Lloyd entered the hospital room, Dulles held out his hand and said: "Selwyn, why did the British wait so long to go into Suez?
Why didn't you go through with it?"

Lloyd was speechless.
In contrast to earlier days, the British foreign secretary last week referred to the American secretary of state as "Foster." In his voice was a note of warmth and even friendship.

It's amazing what a little red moon can do as it zips across Anglo-American skies.

ARRESTED IN MOSCOW

Reps. Mel Price, Illinois Democrat, and Jim Patterson, Connecticut Republican, are probably the first members of the U. S.
Congress to be arrested by the Soviet government.

Recently they were driving down a Moscow street which was restricted, when a policeman took them in. He didn't know who they were and was a little embarrased when he found they were United States Congressmen. However, he held them in violation of a traffic law, and they deposited three rubles, for which they got receipts.

Afterward, Moscow authorities offered to repay the three rubles and secure return of the receipts. The Congressmen refused.

"It's the best souvenir I ever had," Patterson remarked.

Note—In Stockholm, Patterson,
Price, and Van Zandt of Pennsylvania picked up evidence, they said, that the Russians had a spy among congressional employees on Capitol Hill.

MACMILLAN AND EISENHOWER

Here are some of the things Foreign Minister Lloyd of England discussed with Secretary of State Dulles in their three-hour talk during the Queen's visit, and which also will be discussed by Prime Minister MacMillan.

The Near East is No. 1 on the agenda. Lloyd told Dulles he was convinced Moscow would not wage any outright war in the Arab states, that Khrushchev had actually warned Syria not to attack Israel. The situation is made to order from a psychological viewpoint for the Russians to point the finger of guilt at Turkey and claim Moscow is the protector of the Arab peoples. The Kremlin according to Lloyd, doesn't want to change this.

Nikita Khrushchev — The British regard him as much more dangerous than Stalin and Molotov, and have told this to Dulles.
He is inclined to agree. Stalin, though brutal, was cautious in his relations with the United States.
Molotov could be bitter, but was equally cautious. Of course, neither of them had the ICBM.
Khrushchev, however, is unpredictable. For one thing, he drinks far too much. Both Dulles and Lloyd are convinced he doesn't want war, but they are also afraid he is so overconfident that he might overstep. Lloyd feels Khrushchev will use the ICBM and Sputnik to win psychological victories without firing a shot, just as Hitler did in the Ruhr, Rhineland, Austria, and Czechoslovakia.

U. S.-U.K. Scientific Cooperation — Prime Minister MacMillan won't push this. Privately, the British and French have pushed it for some time, but the White House has always been cool. Then out of the clear blue last week, in toasting the Queen, Eisenhower proposed exactly what the British-French had been urging — allied scientific cooperation.

MacMillan now regards this as won; fears there will be a bad reaction in Congress later if he says much about it now. There will be a tightening of the Anglo-American alliance in other directions.
Any talk that the British will set up a neutral buffer state between the United States and Russia is out. Lloyd made it clear that the place of the UK is alongside the USA in any international showdowns. There will be a big announcement of firm, future solidarity.

Colonel Nasser — Lloyd has expressed the view to Dulles that Col. Nasser isn't happy about Russian penetration of Egypt and would like to get back into the good graces of the West. Economic sanctions have hurt Egypt badly. Some of Dulles' advisers have been saying the same thing. Just how often they will be burnt by Nasser remains to be seen.

The loudest noise in the world is the first rattle in your new car.

NURSES ATTEND FIRE FIGHTING INSTITUTE

Nurses from this area participated in a fire-fighting institute sponsored by the Illinois Nurses Association at the Carbondale Armory Thursday.

Lt. Robert McGrath of the Chicago Fire Prevention Bureau demonstrated and taught Patient Evacuation and Fire Fighting techniques. Lt. McGrath is an outstanding man in this field. He spent twenty-one years as a fireman with the Chicago Fire Department. Twelve of these years were spent on "Squad 3" known as the fastest rescue squad in the world.

The fire-fighting by nurses was part of an all-day training program in emergency removal of patients and fire fighting in hospitals being conducted by Lt. McGrath.

Lt. McGrath urged participation in the demonstrations by nurses attending the regional meeting of the Illinois Nurses Association. He said participation experience would help them much more than book knowledge in an emergency.

Much of the morning session was taken up with instruction and demonstrations on how to extinguish fires by cutting off the oxygen supply. Removal of patients and coordination of the evacuation with fire fighting was demonstrated in the afternoon session.

Nurses on the afternoon demonstration team included Beverly Rolla of the Harrisburg hospital and Henrietta Lynn of the Lightner hospital in Harrisburg. Other nurses attending from the Harrisburg hospitals were Shirley Stucker and Fernie Patton. Three nurses from the Egyptian Health Department attended the meeting: Mrs. Mable Grumley Burton, Nursing Supervisor, Mrs. Ruby Turner and Mrs. Lucille Chalpany. Also attending from this area were two nurses from the Carmi hospital and Mrs. Gladys Gibbons from the Crippled Children's Division.

Firemen from DuQuoin, Anna, Chester, Cairo, East St. Louis, Belleville, Carbondale and other leading towns attended the meeting. Other firemen from the area were invited but did not attend.

MEETING OF PUBLIC HEALTH EDUCATORS

Guy J. Hunter, Health Educator of the Egyptian Health Department, attended the fall conference of the Illinois Society of Public Health Educators in Springfield on October 17 and 18.

The purpose of the Illinois Society of Public Health Educators is to contribute to the advancement of the health of all people by improving public health education through the establishment and maintenance of high standards of recruitment, education, and professional ethics; by promoting a better understanding of the professional field of public health education; and by stimulating pure and applied research in public health education.

NBC President Hits Pay TV

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Robert W. Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Co., said today that pay television "is hostile to the public interest."

"The public would have to pay for entertainment now free; and in the process might lose all the other benefits of free television," Sarnoff said.

Speaking at a lunch given by William Block of WHC, NBC's newest television affiliate in Pittsburgh, Sarnoff said that pay TV would be able to use box office revenue to outbid free television for programs, even if the pay system had smaller audiences.

"Instead of being available to everyone without charge, the programs would be available only to the minority of the public willing and able to pay for them," he said.

Ross, telling of the recent undertaking by the Beta Sigma Phi Exemplar chapters of aiding the World Education, Inc. project. A letter was also received from Mr. Ross regarding the work of the sorority Triangle board, of which Mrs. Humm is a member.

An invitation was read from the Xi Chi chapter to the Preferential tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Clyde Wilmoth on Nov. 3 from 3 to 5 p. m.

Following the adjournment of the business meeting, Mrs. John Molinarolo introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Miss Bess Pemberton, who spoke on the topic, "Public Speaking." Miss Pemberton displayed an attractively designed chart copied from the Army Air Force chart used in training men in public speaking. She stressed the importance of sincerity and outlined the general form of a good speech, which was as follows: development of the listener's interest, the use of three or four general statements, detailed examples of those statements, and finally, a "bulls-eye" conclusion, in which all examples are brought together to form the main idea or purpose of the talk.

Miss Pemberton described the three principal types of public speeches: 1 — an informative speech, 2—a persuasive speech, and 3—an argument. She closed her talk with an interesting review of Willa Cather's book, "Shadows on the Rock."

UNITED CHUR

Bantam Executed
FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—A court here sentenced a red-crested black-feathered bantam to be burned to death to teach wine-lovers the world over the difference between real and imitation Chianti. The bantam was depicted on labels of a respectable but non-Chianti wine. The court ruled that it was too similar to the bantam on the true Chianti labels—only the color of the crest was different—and ordered thousand of labels with its image to be burned.

Presley Families Shudder When Telephone Rings

By HUGH ROBERTSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UP)—Getting rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley on the telephone is just about equivalent to climbing Mount Everest—his number here is unlisted, and only two or three friends are let in on the secret.

But while Elvis is at peace in his newly-acquired southern-style mansion, 31 other Presley families are finding themselves harassed daily.

The calls are mostly from teenagers, but older folks try to get in touch with the singer, too.

"Being the first Presley in the telephone book, I get a large share of the calls," Mrs. A. W. Presley said.

"Even when the caller is convinced Elvis doesn't live here, the party insists 'you are probably a cousin and know where I can locate him,'" Mrs. Presley said.

Long-Distance Calls
Mrs. Presley said she has even gotten collect long-distance calls from Texas, Florida and California.

Many insist, "Aw, c'mon, we

Girl's Clothing Got Too Heavy

OMAHA — (UP) — A container containing a girl's clothing was found on the bank of the Missouri River here and touched off a search for a possible drowning victim.

The search was short-lived however. A check with the girl's relatives disclosed that the 17-year-old "just got tired" of carrying the clothes and left them on the bank of the river.

know Elvis is there," she said.

James T. Presley said the number of calls aren't what they used to be.

"They would ring my number at least once a night," he said, "and would often wake me up at 2 or 3 a.m."

"I can always tell when Elvis is in Memphis because the calls start coming in again."

Mrs. H. P. Presley thinks Elvis "ought to put up with what the other Presleys have to put up with."

It isn't so bad when the callers are nice or don't call in the early morning hours, she said.

"I don't have anything against the boy, but I do wish there was some way for his callers to call him and not me."

AN OUTSTANDING RECORD of community service work won a division-wide "Good Citizen of the Year" award for Harrisburg Kroger store manager Ed Creek, 328 Locust street. Mr. Creek (left) is shown accepting the Good Citizen plaque from E. R. Reynolds, Kroger district manager. Selection of Mr. Creek, who has been active in civic club and church affairs in Harrisburg for years, was made by a committee of community leaders. The annual award gives recognition to Kroger store managers for work in activities denoting good citizenship. (Daily Register Staff Photo)

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Many calendars show Sundays and holidays in red ink, while the normal workdays are printed in black. Is this because Sundays and holidays are the nonproductive days of our lives? Is it because the days are wasted and could not be considered as showing much gain, much profit or much advancement?

Although scores of people may not show much benefit from these red days on the calendar, this is not true for a large portion of the nation. To those who worship and who follow God's will these days are "red letter days." They are outstanding as days of fellowship with God. They are the days when folk can devote their full attention to filling up their souls and to listening to the guiding voice of their Father.

Would that all of us might fill the "red letter days" of our calendars with joy and peace and love which comes from full fellowship with the Giver of assets far greater than money! There could then be no thought of our going "in the red" on Sunday.

Walter S. Waller, 70, Former Thompsonville Man, Dies at Benton

Walter S. Waller, 70, resident of Benton, formerly of Thompsonville, died in the Franklin county hospital in Benton, Tuesday night. The body will be received by the Courtney funeral home in Galatia today and will lie in state there until the funeral at 2 p. m. Thursday. The funeral services will be held in the Courtney funeral chapel with Rev. Howard Snider of Thompsonville, officiating. Burial will be in the Liberty cemetery in south Flannigan township of Hamilton county.

Mr. Waller was a veteran of World War I and is survived by the following sisters: Mrs. Emma Flannigan, Thompsonville, Mrs. Myrtle Golden, Rock Island, Mrs. Laura Burkitt, Christopher, Mrs. Carrie Holt, Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Edith Langeley, E. Moline and Ms. Mamie Batts, Benton.

Loot Too Heavy, Pinch Was Easy

OMAHA — (UP) — Some days you can just sit and wait and business comes to you.

Omaha Police Detective Capt. H. L. Carpenter sat and watched while a 15-year-old boy sneaked along an alley behind the detective's home. He didn't get too excited when the youth suddenly darted into the yard, seized the top of a bird bath and fled.

Carpenter took off in leisurely pursuit and nabbed the youth before he had cleared the alley. The bird bath top weighed about 60 pounds.

First balloon flight in America was made by Francois Blanchard in 1793, with George Washington among the spectators.

U. S. Successfully Fires 1,500-Mile Jupiter Ballistic Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States seized the propaganda of the day in the battle with Russia for space rocket supremacy. It told the world it has successfully fired a 1,500-mile Jupiter ballistic missile "on target."

It is the first time the Defense Department has ever given any material information on a missile shot. The abrupt departure from strictest secrecy which marked other firings is an apparent attempt to restore public confidence in the U. S. missile program as well as warn Russia of its capabilities.

There have been some sharp congressional attacks against "unnecessary" U. S. missile secrecy since Russia launched an earth satellite with something believed close to an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Observers who saw the Army's intermediate range Jupiter leap into the sky over Cape Canaveral, Fla., Tuesday night said it was one of the biggest missiles fired there recently. It is expected to set the stage for test firing the Vanguard missile which will attempt to launch a U. S. satellite next year.

Distance Kept Secret
In its announcement, the Pentagon withheld the distance flown by the Jupiter as secret. But it said: "The missile flew its prescribed course and impacted in the pre-selected target area."

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy previously has said there would be a speed-up in testing the Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor intermediate range missile to determine which one would be adopted for operational use. The testing is expected to take several months.

Murray Snyder, assistant defense secretary for public relations, Tuesday night said the department has been making information available on new weapons within security bounds. But now the Canaveral range tests have "reached a stage where certain additional information may now be made public."

The White House, however, made the final decision on giving out the information, it was learned. The President said Tuesday night in New York the American people soon to try and strengthen their confidence in U. S. scientific ability and in the domestic economy.

Couple Asks $60,000 in Suit

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—An Indiana couple today sought $60,000 damages in a federal court suit here because an oil well was allegedly drilled only a few yards from the grave of their son near Albion, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Bushers, Oakland City, Ind., charged the oil well was drilled without their knowledge and was "contemptuous of their rights, feelings and sentiments."

The suit, filed here Tuesday, was brought against James and Harvey Allen, Albion; the Mac Oil Co., owned by the Allens, and the Graceland Cemetery Assn., which maintains the Graceland Cemetery near Albion, a short distance from the Indiana border.

The suit asked $20,000 damages from each of the three defendants. The Bushers charged the cemetery association benefited from the oil well and "acted without legal right" in permitting the well to be drilled.

The oil well was drilled last year, the suit charged, about 50 feet from the grave of the Bushers' son, William Lloyd, who was buried at the cemetery in 1953.

SIU to Dismiss Classes Friday And Saturday

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP)—Southern Illinois University announced today it will dismiss classes Friday only because of the flu.

The university said the purpose of the closure is to help control the flu and to protect teachers who will be attending the southern division meeting of the Illinois Education Assn., Friday on the campus.

Total figures on flu cases were not available today, but Dr. Richard Lee, health service director, said cases were up 30 per cent over a week ago.

More than 1,500 students had been affected with flu of some degree in a five-week period when the university established a temporary hospital last week.

Recess Steel Price Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate anti-monopoly investigators took under study today the question of whether there is real competition in the nation's steel industry.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, said testimony by the nation's two largest steel corporations—U. S. Steel and Bethlehem—gave "no real showing that there is any substantial competition in prices."

He said the subcommittee will examine the anti-trust laws to see whether they apply in this instance to the steel industry.

Kefauver asserted, at the conclusion Tuesday of two days of examination of Bethlehem's officials, that similar conditions led to the nationalization of the steel industry in England.

Kefauver also criticized Bethlehem for the high salaries paid to many of its top officials. Eleven Bethlehem executives are listed among the 18 highest salaried persons in the nation.

The subcommittee has been investigating last July's $6-a-ton price boost in steel prices.

The subcommittee's hearings were recessed until Nov. 4.

Rites at Stonefort Thursday 2 p. m. for Mrs. George Riley Sr.

The funeral of Mrs. Ella Riley, 62, wife of George Riley Sr., of Stonefort, who died Tuesday, will be held in the Stonefort Baptist church at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. George Smith will officiate and burial will be in the Bolton cemetery.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Riley is survived by her father, Lawson Deaton; her sons, George Riley Jr., Harrisburg RFD 1, and Charles Riley, Carrier Mills; her stepson, Don A. Riley, San Diego, Calif., and eight grandchildren. Her mother, Mrs. Laura Deaton, preceded her in death.

'Chins Up' Campaign Eisenhower Plans Speeches to Bolster Public Confidence

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower is throwing himself personally into a "chins up" campaign to bolster public confidence in the domestic economy and in America's ability to keep scientific pace with Russia.

The Chief Executive, himself, will embark shortly on a series of speeches around the country to bolster the faith of the nation in its ability to meet the many problems pressing on the United States in growing complexity.

The President was not specific, but the United Press learned that his speeches will be delivered in several widely separated parts of the country.

He outlined his "chins up" campaign Tuesday night in a speech before a Waldorf Astoria Hotel audience of 1,500 persons gathered under the auspices of the National Fund for Medical Education.

Will Meet Macmillan
The President flew back to Washington early today to begin three days of meetings with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Ostensibly the occasion for the dinner Tuesday night was to honor Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., retired head of General Motors, for his "outstanding leadership in medical education." Sloan received the Frank H. Lahey Memorial Award established in 1954 to honor the late, eminent Boston surgeon and founder of the Lahey Clinic.

Shortly before he spoke, however, the White House released a new version of the opening portion of his speech, and when it was delivered, the Chief Executive elaborated on his plan to go to the people in an effort to generate public confidence in the government's ability to cope with the problems of today.

On the particular point of the state of the domestic economy, Eisenhower said he was glad to hear Sloan say in his speech accepting the award that he could not understand why Americans were apprehensive about the state of the economy since it was "Actually the greatest thing man ever produced."

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Republican Vernon L. Nickell today announced he will not be a candidate next year for a fifth term as state superintendent of public instruction. Nickell, who is 66, and who recently spent a long seige in the hospital with a serious illness, said he was giving up the office he has held since 1943 for reasons of health.

But it also was known that many party leaders, particularly among GOP county chairmen, were cool to re-ticketing Nickell because of his involvement in the controversial Dunbar school food hauling contract.

Nickell told a news conference that he completed a physical check-up Tuesday and that "all three of my doctors agreed I should not run again."

The state official said the cancer condition for which he was hospitalized now "appeared well under control," but that "the serious situation is my lungs." He said the doctors told him that "if I continue to drive myself" his heart would eventually be affected.

"The best thing to do is keep out," Nickell said the doctors told him. He said he would not try to name the candidate to succeed him, but would be willing to discuss candidates with party leaders.

He said Gov. Stratton did not influence his decision and that Stratton had told him only, "You go ahead and make up your own mind."

Nickell came to the state superintendent's office in 1943 from a job as superintendent of Campaign public schools, a post he had held for 12 years.

Bob Hope Faces Loss of Sponsor

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope today faced the loss of his television sponsor because he appeared on Frank Sinatra's TV program last Friday night.

Timex Corp. notified Hope Tuesday night that the firm was cancelling his contract because the comedian's appearance on a program co-sponsored by Bulova Watch Co. was a "breach of contract."

Hope's agent, James Saphier, said the comedian's network (NBC) had refused to accept the cancellation, however, and a meeting of attorneys was scheduled for today.

Informed of Timex's decision, Hope said: "That's what you get for trying to help a friend."

Votes ROTC Ban

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin student senate Tuesday night voted 27-3 to do away with ROTC on campus.

The senate, which represents all university students, will seek faculty and state legislative action to eliminate compulsory military training.

Don Hoffman, Elm Grove, Wis., senate president, said the action was taken because "ROTC is contrary to the established principles of democratic education at the university."

Globe to Purchase Stock in Channel 2 Station at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Globe-Democrat Publishing Co. Tuesday announced it will purchase one-fourth of the outstanding common stock of Signal Hill Telecasting Corp.

Signal Hill operates on television Channel 2-KTVI-TV. The stock purchase, under terms of the agreement with Paul E. Peltason, vice president, and Harry Tenenbaum, president of Signal Hill, is contingent upon FCC approval of the sale of Channel 4, KWK, to the Columbia Broadcasting System. The Globe-Democrat holds a minority interest in KWK.

Hoffman Reports Some Payees Alter State Checks

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—State Treasurer Elmer Hoffman says a "surprising" number of payees are altering amounts on state checks.

Most of the violations, he said, are on small checks to aid to dependent children and blind pension recipients.

Hoffman, speaking before the Lions Club Tuesday night, said the amounts on the state checks should be spelled out in letters "as a safeguard" against tampering with the figures.

The state does not lose in such cases, he said, but banks are inconvenienced in trying to collect the difference between the true and altered amounts.

Hoffman said inspectors from his office who are present at the opening of safety deposit boxes run into some strange cases.

One safety deposit box contained only a sandwich, he said, with the notation: "For my hungry relatives."

Living Costs At New High

NEW YORK (AP)—Living costs rose to a new all-time high in September for the 13th straight month, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today.

All major groups—except transportation—showed an increase in September over August.

The conference board's index for September stood at 105.3 (1953 equals 100); up 0.2 per cent from August and 2.8 per cent from a year ago.

Syria Reluctantly Agrees to Give Saud Three Days to Settle Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Syria, which has rejected all mediation efforts in its dispute with Turkey, today reluctantly agreed to give King Saud of Saudi Arabia three days to settle it.

The Syrians did not say they accepted Saud's mediation offer, which already has been agreed to by Turkey. But they voted for adjournment of the United Nations General Assembly debate on the Middle East "war crisis" until Friday.

The adjournment proposal came at the end of one of the most menacing attacks on the United States since the height of the cold war. Charges U. S. Instigation

In it, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged that Turkey, at American instigation, was ready to attack Syria with 1,300 warplanes, 1,400 tanks, 3,500 artillery pieces and other equipment totalling about $2 billion worth supplied by the United States and not yet paid for.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, appealing for the assembly to adjourn proceedings to give King Saud time to mediate, accused Gromyko of "playing a game."

Despite "soothing statements," Gromyko said, the United States was attempting to have Turkey start a major war and drag in the entire North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Merely for the record," said Lodge, "I will say that the heart of the North Atlantic Treaty is the statement that an attack on one is an attack on all. In other words, we stay where we are unless we are attacked."

Marine Captain, TV Winner On Cooking, Now a Civilian And Working As a Salesman

GALION, Ohio (AP)—The Marine captain who came through the battle of the isolation booth with $64,000 has moved on to a new plateau.

Richard S. McCutchen has turned in his dogtags, become a civilian and gone to work as a salesman.

While a Marine, McCutchen became something of a national hero two years ago when his knowledge of cooking won him the first $64,000 quiz jackpot in broadcasting history. His mental exertions in the isolation booth tantalized millions of television viewers and whetted many an appetite.

Life has changed since then for the 30-year-old ex-Marine.

On Sept. 23, McCutchen started work at Galion, Ohio, as a trainee in sales and advertising for the Perfection Steel Body Co. The firm makes hydraulic equipment and dump bodies.

Field Interests Him

Enthusiastic about his job, McCutchen says the offer he received from company Vice President Herbert T. Cobey was too good to turn down for it presented a challenging opportunity in a field that interested him.

In his first weeks on the job, McCutchen commuted 50 miles daily between Galion and suburban Columbus, where he lived with his wife, Betsy, and three daughters, Sherrill, 7; Anne, 5, and Catherine, 3.

However, he has since found a place in Galion and now plans to buy a home and settle in this community of 10,000.

McCutchen said his success on television played no part in his decision to leave the Marines. When he began appearing on the celebrated quiz show Aug. 16, 1955, he was a naval ROTC instructor at Ohio State University in Columbus.

He recalled that his appearances on the show, which culminated in his triumph on Sept. 13, did little to change his life, except for the phone calls.

Goated For Bear

"One time I got a call in the middle of the night from a hunter who wanted to know how to prepare bear steaks," he said.

The decision to leave the service was made last August and McCutchen said he did all he could to avoid publicity at the time.

"The services," he said, "are quite concerned about the number of personnel leaving because of more attractive offers from private industry. I don't want to add to their troubles. The Marine Corps has been very good to me."

He added that most of his life has been spent in a military setting. His father is a retired naval captain. McCutchen himself joined the Navy at 17 for five years and then spent eight more years in the Marines.

The former Marine, a native of Long Beach, Calif., said he was very happy with his new career, for it gave him more time to pursue his hobbies of hunting, fishing and, of course, cooking.

But in recent weeks, cooking has been more than a hobby for McCutchen.

His wife fell and broke her leg a few weeks ago, making it necessary for hubby to handle the kitchen chores.

"The Ford County Story"—a color movie produced by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture—tells how the citizens of this county did something about eliminating brucellosis by community teamwork.

THE NEW 1958 STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT, now on display at the Exide Garage, Harrisburg dealer, features a V-8, 289-cubic inch engine generating 225 horsepower with 4-barrel carburetor, lower roof line and dual headlamps.

Exide Displays New Studebakers

A wider look—combined with a lower and flared silhouette—highlights the styling features of the new 1958 Studebaker sedans and station wagons which are on display at the Exide Garage, Harrisburg dealer.

The new Packard Hawk also is making its debut—joining Studebaker—Packard's distinguished Golden Hawk and Silver Hawk for 1958, which with 14-inch wheels comprise one of the lowest series of cars on the road.

In November, two sleek completely new models will be introduced into the Studebaker line—a two-door hardtop in both the President and Commander series. Incorporating the outstanding features of the classic award-winning Hawks, the President, Commander and Champion series combine the Hawks' sleek, low profile and fin treatment with big car massiveness.

Chief characteristics of these new Studebakers are dual headlamps, lowered roof line and high, canted rear fins.

The new Packard Hawk blends the lines of Studebaker-Packard's successful Hawk styling with a new European concept, in keeping with Packard's classic styling.

The rear deck flows out and down, giving a long, symmetrical appearance—with a Continental tire motif cresting and accentuating the lines.

Dealers also are displaying the 1958 version of the popular Scotsman models which scored a success as a 1957 model in Studebaker-Packard's line-up of fine cars.

The crisp and clean lines have been continued, along with economy of operation and maintenance that attracted purse-wise buyers last spring and summer.

The dual headlamps, standard on the Commander and President series and optional on the Champion series, feature separate lamps on each fender for brights and dims.

The outer set replaces the dimming action of the conventional one-bulb unit and is used for in-town driving. The inner set gives the full-road visibility of the bright beams. Used in conjunction with the inner set for open-road driving, the lights afford complete night vision. The inner set cuts out when the dimming switch is pressed.

Separation of the brights and dims into separate units allows them to be focused independently and with truer accuracy.

The lowered roof line, with the beauty and symmetry of an airfoil, is a combined styling and engineering achievement, accomplished with no loss of head room. It was made possible through the introduction this year of a one-piece drive shaft which enables the floor pan to be lowered. The door lines remain the same, retaining Studebaker's characteristic ease of access.

Americans in France Must Adjust to French Food and Water, Bynum Reports

Editor's Note: James H. Bynum, native of Stonefort and former HTHS teacher, is teaching English and Journalism in the Army dependent high school at Rochefort, France, and will write his impressions of the area from time to time.

The most difficult thing for an American to adjust to in France is the lack of trust in French food and water.

French cuisine is famed as the world's best, and French dishes are artistically and tastefully prepared. In France food is treated with loving care, but eating on the French economy must be done with caution.

Unless emphatically ordered well-done, meats are always rare and are liable to be infected with dangerous tapeworm larvae. Milk is not pasteurized generally (in the land of Pasteur) and may bear tuberculosis and undulant fever germs. Vegetables and fruits growing close to or on the ground are apt to have been contaminated by dangerous and indelicate fertilizer practices.

Because sewage systems utilize open street gutters with continual seepage, French water is unsafe for drinking unless it is either boiled or treated with chemicals. Most municipal water systems are chemically treated but not usually adequate enough to render the water safe for drinking.

It is for self-preservation that the French have turned to wine. The alcoholic content kills all germs. Those who don't drink fermented beverages drink tea, coffee, or bottled mineral water from high mountain springs. (Despite the fact that the French carry home wine in about the same quantities as the American does milk and pop, I have yet to see a drunken Frenchman. It seems to be a fact that what the French family does together, it does with temperance).

The casual glass of ice-water so appreciated by the American is a strange and suspected rarity here. For one thing the French doubt that the practice contributes to good health, and for another pure ice and water are difficult to come by.

Pollution of French rivers and beaches by sewerage has made many of them unsafe for bathing and fishing, and many of the most beautiful cities have an undesirable odor that doesn't show up in the tourist pictures.

One wonders, after realizing that by American standards the French have three strikes against them from the start, how the country has been able through hundreds of years to spawn so many obviously healthy and handsome citizens.

First of Tetanus Toxoid Clinics in Schools Oct. 30

On Wednesday, Oct. 30, the first of six tetanus toxoid clinics will be launched in the Harrisburg Public schools. It was announced today by Ethel Mathias, school nurse. Pupils and school personnel will have an opportunity to get either a booster of tetanus toxoid or a series of two shots as needed. Parents are advised to follow the recommendations of their family physicians in regard to their children's participation.

On Friday, Nov. 8, at Bayliss school and on Friday, Dec. 6, at Horace Mann school pre-school children may share in the clinic program if parents will have them at the respective school at 1 p. m. A fee of 25c is charged for those who are able to pay.

HTHS Report Cards

Place in Mails

HTHS Principal Eltis Henson announced today that report cards for the first six weeks of the term were placed in the mails Tuesday.

These cards will be mailed each six weeks and need not be returned to the school, he stated.

Parents of HTHS students who fail to receive the report cards should notify the school, Mr. Henson added.

The Romans began shipping olive oil to Spain more than 2,000 years ago. The Spaniards found it so useful for cooking, food and beauty purposes that they planted their own olive groves and, today, Spain is the world's largest producer of the oil.

Storing Perennial Corms Annual Chore for the Garden Enthusiast

By HENRY FREE
It's about time to give serious consideration to the digging, curing and storing of gladiolus corms, dahlia and canna tubers and similar tender plants which added so much color to the garden this summer and autumn. As a heavy frost off to within an inch of the corm and burned to kill any thrips which may be hiding there. All soil is removed from the corms, which are given a DDT dusting. This is done to get, we hope, any thrips who planned on spending the winter within.

The DDT treatment consists of placing the corms in paper bags and sprinkling them with two level teaspoons of DDT for each 100 corms. Twist the neck of the bag tightly, and in a week remove the corms from the bag, place in mesh bags in which onions and oranges are marketed, or in flat containers, three to five inches deep.

All containers must be such that air circulates freely through them—and the corms as well. Therefore do not pack the corms in more than three layers. The tiny corm-lets which are clinging to the mother corm should be rubbed off and stored separately in slightly moistened sand or peat moss. They will shrivel if stored dry.

As soon as frost has killed the dahlia tops, cut them off a few inches from the ground. Then lift the tuber clumps carefully with a digging fork, let them dry upside down for a few days, remove loose soil, place in bushel baskets or large boxes and store in a cool, dry place for the winter. Do not wash the clumps. Sand, peat moss or vermiculite are excellent packing materials to keep the tubers from drying out.

When digging, take great care not to break the stems from the dahlia tuber. Many old-timers will wrap the tubers in newspaper which are moistened frequently throughout winter. The Old Gardener recommends dusting the tubers with sulphur before storage—and covering the containers with dampened cloth or burlap. About New Year's Day, and again on Washington's Birthday, inspect the tubers and discard any which may have rotted. From time to time redampen the covering. Storage should be where the temperature is about 40 degrees.

AFTER FROST has killed the dahlia tops, cut stems a few inches from the ground. Dig carefully with a fork. Careful curing and storing will mean bright garden colors next year.

Commission on County Problems to Meet At Marion on Nov. 14

The Legislative commission to Study County Problems will meet at the court house in Marion at 10 a. m. Thursday, Nov. 14. The meeting will follow a tour of the counties in the southern part of the state on Nov. 13.

All citizens who are interested in problems of county government should plan to attend and help to acquaint the members of the problems of their counties. Groups are urged to have a qualified spokesman to represent them before the commission.

Came From Dogs

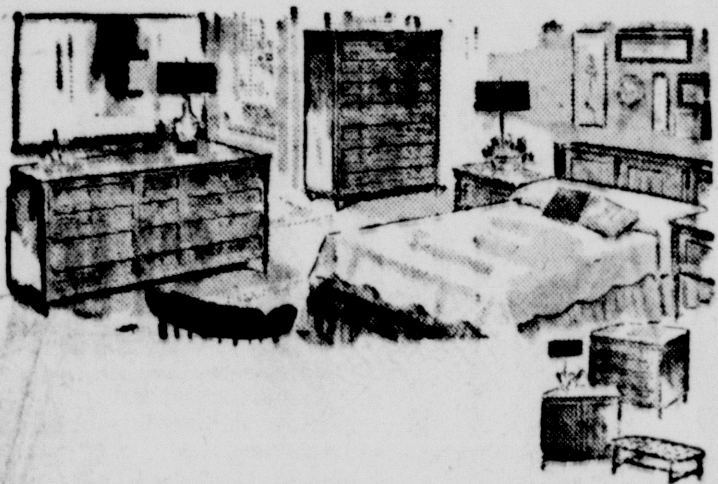

The term "hard-bitten" evolved from a descriptive term popular in the last century. Certain dogs were referred to as "hard in biting"; hence "dogged," as a hard bitten sergeant.

may come at any time, it is none too soon to be prepared for this annual chore.

Gladioli are dug after the foliage has yellowed and dried in the sun, away from danger of frost, for a few days. Then the tops are cut

GOVERNOR WILLIAM G. STRATTON RECEIVES THE FIRST COPY of a new history of aviation in Illinois from State Historian Clyde C. Walton, left, and Arthur E. Abney, director of the state Department of Aeronautics. The 271-page volume, titled "Balloons to Jets," was written by Howard L. Scamehorn for his Ph. D. degree in history at the University of Illinois. The Department of Aeronautics supplied much of his material and flew Scamehorn to many parts of the state for interviews with aviation's oldtimers. Publication of the book was sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society, of which Walton is secretary-treasurer. State of Illinois—L. D. I. S.

Hurst Worker In Federal Court

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. UP—A 45-year-old Hurst, Ill., construction worker landed in more trouble in Federal Court here today.

Samuel Shettleworth was appearing for sentence after pleading guilty to charges of possession and transportation of liquor without a tax stamp.

Free since July 14 on $500 bond, he was again transporting liquor when he came to court—this time on the inside, authorities said.

After questioning Shettleworth briefly, U. S. District Judge William G. Juergens ordered the marshal to take him to St. Louis city jail on a contempt charge.

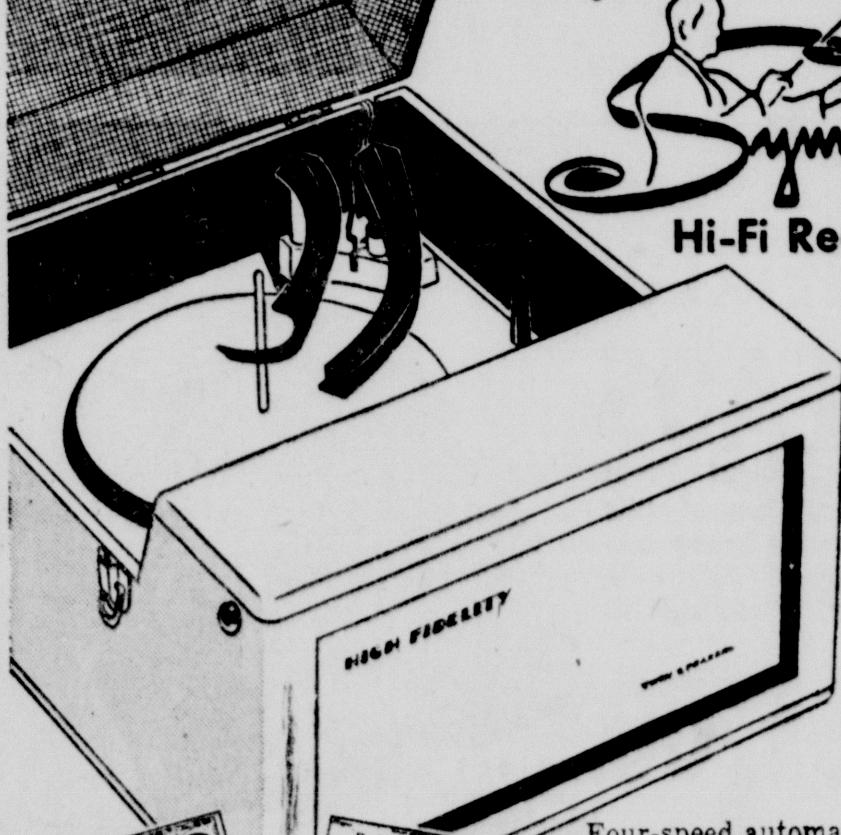

He is scheduled to return to court Thursday.

FORSAKING BASEBALL for books is something of a problem for Milwaukee Braves rookie catcher Bob Taylor, attempting to catch up on freshman studies at Southern Illinois University. Taylor, signed by the Braves for a reported $119,000 bonus after his graduation from Metropolis high school last June, enrolled at SIU following the World Series. He has three weeks of classes to make up, and as a library daydream plainly shows, it may not be easy. Taylor is a business administration student at Southern. (SIU Photo Service)

Mollenkopf UP Coach of Week

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — He has a habit of starting out as an assistant coach and winding up as a highly successful head coach.

He is a fundamentalist, a perfectionist and a plain pain in the neck to other Big Ten coaches who never know when his fired-up defense may spring a most unlikely upset.

He's Kenneth (Jack) Mollenkopf, Purdue, the United Press Coach of the Week after his winless Boilermakers, 21-point underdogs, upended Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team at the time, 20-13.

Mollenkopf, a chunky man of 32 who was a football end and baseball catcher at Bowling Green of Ohio, attributed the stunning Purdue victory to line play, sticky fingers and desire.

"I think we had more desire than Michigan State," he reflected. "Our defense did a tremendous job. Our line played real well and that's where we won it. We were fumbling all season but this time we hung onto the ball. And we recovered five of their fumbles, too. We had a bunch of serious kids who believed in themselves.

"Perhaps we could win them all if we played as well as we did Saturday. But we're really not strong."

Dotson Holding Basketball Practice

Coach John Dotson has been holding basketball practice for boys not out for football the past week, with about 65 out, including all classes.

Dotson said that he is working the boys on fundamentals, that there will be no cuts until after full-scale practice begins Nov. 12.

Most of the practice sessions are being held in the evenings.

Celtics Defeat Hawks, 115-90

By United Press

The defending champion Boston Celtics appear today to be taking up right where they left off last spring in the National Basketball Assn.

The Celtics, who won the Eastern Division regular-season title and the division playoffs before whipping St. Louis in the championship playoff series, opened the 1957-58 NBA season by defeating the Hawks, 115-90.

The crowd of 9,024 turned out in St. Louis for the season-opener and saw the slick-passing Celtics, paced by Bob Cousy, open up an 81-75 lead at the end of the third period and cruise in the remainder of the way.

Ortega Wins Split-Decision Over Kid Gavilan

LOS ANGELES — Gaspar Ortega, in a surprising late finish, won a split decision victory over bolo-punching Kid Gavilan in a scheduled 12-round welterweight elimination bout for the vacant title Tuesday night at Wrigley Field.

The split-decision stunned most of the ring-side press who had Gavilan in front by a wide margin. The United Press card favored the Kid by four points, 116 to 112.

Ortega's win evened the score with Gavilan. The 31-year-old Havana, Cuba battler had decided Ortega on July 31 in Miami, Fla. Gavilan, the sixth ranking title contender, scaled 146 as did his seventh-ranked opponent.

Zsa Zsa Rations Her Dates; Five Nights to Study

HOLLYWOOD — Zsa Zsa Gabor is on a date diet—not the kind that grow on palm trees nor the calendar variety, but the two-legged type who squire her to the Sunset Strip night spots.

The Hungarian beauty, one of filmtown's most sought-after glamour girls, is rationing her time.

"From now on two nights a week are for men. Five nights are for study," she says.

Zsa Zsa is serious about her fast-rising acting career and has been studying with her friend, actress Agnes Moorehead. In addition, she spends long hours of analytic watching in front of her television screen.

Looks, Diamonds, Romances

"I've been known for my looks, my diamonds and my romances. Now I want to be admired for my acting," Zsa Zsa smiled.

Word has been getting around, and Zsa Zsa has been deluged with film and television scripts. If she accepted half the deals the colorful Gabor gal could buy all the diamonds she wanted.

She recently returned from London where she played opposite Shakespearean actor Anthony Quayle in "The Queen and Smith." London's film row says Zsa Zsa has arrived as a strong dramatic actress. Hollywood got the message with her performances in "Death of a Scoundrel," and "The Girl in the Kremlin."

All this doesn't mean Zsa Zsa is forsaking her reputation as a glamour girl. She is as incapable of entering a room unnoticed as would be the Santa Fe Superchief.

No. One Glamour Girl

With Marilyn Monroe inactive in the East, Grace Kelly retired in Monaco and Ava Gardner self-exiled in Spain, La Gabor is Hollywood's current number one glamour girl.

"Glamour and being a personality are good," she admits. "So are diamonds. Husbands are good—or at least some of them. But it is also good to be a good actress."

Zsa Zsa sets the pace for other actresses when it comes to witty remarks, too. One of her classics:

"Never have I hated a man enough to insult him by returning his diamonds."

Some of her Gaborisms have shown up in recent movie and TV scripts.

"I don't mind if other women—or even my own sister, Eva—try to imitate me. Mama says this is a compliment and as far as I'm concerned, Mama hasn't been wrong yet."

The topper to Zsa Zsa's climb to dramatic stardom is on the fire at 20th Century-Fox where plans are cooking for "The Zsa Zsa Gabor Story" to be filmed—with Zsa Zsa playing the title role.

Sliding Dishes Cause Car Crash

GOSHEN, Ind. — Mrs. Dale Henderson, 21, Goshen, described this "chain reaction," which resulted in an auto collision, to local police.

She was driving along in her car when a dog darted into the vehicle's path. She turned the car to avoid hitting the dog. At the same time, she tried to grab some dishes which were sliding off the car seat. Her car swerved toward the curb and crashed into a parked car.
